

A Z A H A R

REVISTA POÉTICA - N°125

TALLER DE POESÍA - AÑO XXXV - AGOSTO 2023

📍 José Gabriel Támara

🇪🇸 Editada en Conil de la Frontera (España)

AN EMERGENCY LANDING IN YOUR HAIR

Planes got it into their heads that they were better than ships,
but pride comes before a fall.

The sadness of victory is unbearable.

In the darkness of your hair glitter the tiny wrecks of airships
and to the bottom of your eyes

sink sparkling mysteries.

Speechlessly
- like the smile on your lips
I'm awaiting my opportunity.

The book A dictionary of foreign dreams of JANIK PAVOL -Eslovaquia- Translated James Sutherland Smith